

SEN Information Report

The Special Educational Needs and Disability Regulations 2014 require the academy to publish certain information regarding our provision for students with SEN. We hope parents of current and prospective students find the following information helpful and we encourage all interested parties to contact the academy for more information.

We provide for the following kinds of special educational needs (SEN):

Students at Ormiston SWB Academy have a range of needs including Communication and Interaction; Cognition and Learning; Social, Emotional and Mental Health difficulties and Sensory or Physical difficulties. We have a Speech and Language Resource base whereby we ensure students with specific Speech and Language needs are catered for.

We identify and assess students with SEN using the following methods:

When your child first joins Ormiston SWB Academy, we use information from a range of sources to help identify SEND and other needs. These include information from parents / carer's; primary school teachers; end of key stage 2 levels; base line testing; literacy and numeracy tests; application form information; subject teachers; specialist colleagues and external agencies.

All students at the Academy are closely monitored for their progress and attainment, including those who have or may have SEND after each data capture.

The continuous monitoring of students during their time at Ormiston SWB Academy will further identify students with a special educational need. This identification may come from tutors, subject teachers, support colleagues, Pastoral Heads of Year, Outside agencies, parents / carer's or the students themselves. If your child needs to be assessed, we would use a range of assessments depending on the area of need. These may include book trawls; lesson drop-ins; etc.

There is a staged and graduated approach to identifying and assessing needs. Once the SENDCo has completed an analysis of all information and evidence of the child's progress, next steps are determined.

- No concerns: feedback is shared with staff raising concern to work with student on in class differentiation
- Concerns: discuss concerns with parent and request external assessments to identify areas of concern and develop strategies and recommendations
- Student is placed on SEND register and information regarding strategies for WAVE 1 1 in class teaching is provided through the Additional Support Register. Parents are informed their child is receiving extra interventions or reasonable adjustments.

We evaluate the effectiveness of our SEN provision in the following ways:

All students including those with SEND are assessed on a regular basis. There is a regular monitoring and evaluation of all interventions through book trawls observations and, student voice; Progress is tracked and reviewed through Year Group Achievement meetings at each data capture.

SEND students are expected to make the same progress as all students at the Academy. The SEND Cohort within each year group is aiming for a P8 score of 0.

Each year a meeting is held with SLT to feedback progress of the SEND group and identify areas of strength and those requiring development. Interventions are individually reviewed due to the success criteria of student progress, attitude to learning and value for money.

Our arrangements for assessing and reviewing the progress of students with SEN are as follows:

Students are tracked and monitored through the Year Group Achievement meetings and interventions for those under-achieving is identified and agreed at these meetings. Those with a P8 score of below 0 are identified and individual needs considered at that time as to whether additional support is required and the nature of that support. The support identified is tracked by the staff delivering it and discussed during line management meetings, holding staff accountable at all levels for the intervention they are delivering. In addition to this, students are reviewed and discussed at the subsequent Year Group Achievement Meeting and the impact of the intervention considered.

Feedback is determined by the Year Group and the data captures and Teacher Assessments throughout the academic yearly cycle.

The SENDCO alongside the Year group work together to ensure holistic needs are met and the progress is the responsibility of this group, with overall accountability for SEND being with the SENDCO.

Parents are invited in on Progress Days to discuss the impact of interventions and we welcome their input into their child's education.

Our approach to teaching students with SEN includes:

We believe in a fully inclusive approach to teaching students and whenever possible students remain in the classroom receiving specialist subject support. In addition to this we believe promoting independence is key to preparing the SEND students for adulthood and so try to avoid reliance on any one to one support in the classroom. Staff are fully aware through the Additional Support Register of SEND students needs and as such they are well equipped with Wave 1 strategies to support classroom differentiation. Having said that if a student has been identified as under achieving in a particular subject we will work with the class teacher or Director to put a plan in place that supports the student for a time limited piece of intervention. This could be either withdrawal intervention to work in a small group if the student is in key Stage 3, or it could be as part of some in class support where the student acts as a 'challenge' and 'questions' the student to support learning.

If a student is withdrawn for any period of time for intervention the key is always to return them to the classroom as quickly as possible and a supported integration is key. If the student is unable to manage in mainstream lessons even with a higher level of support and following integration and no progress is being made a referral to an Educational Psychologist would be made for more specialist guidance.

When your child starts their GCSE courses in Year 9 the Academy will access and apply for exam access arrangements according to the joint council qualifications exam regulations.

We adapt the curriculum for students with SEN in the following ways:

All staff are expected to be familiar with our Additional Support Register (ASR) and this informs curriculum planning throughout the academic year. We have dedicated pathways which may include GCSE options where lower attaining students (including those with SEND) are able to access additional literacy and numeracy support, and a more personalised curriculum pathway. A students timetable may be altered for nurture time, behaviour / inclusion support or, SEN interventions.

We enable students with SEN to engage in the activities of the academy, together with children who do not have SEN, in the following ways:
